

Front-End Web Developer

Description

AvidBeam has an opening for a Front-End Web developer. A successful candidate will join a highly-motivated team of software designers and engineers responsible for the development and integration of computer vision and multimedia applications and libraries. The responsibilities of the candidate would be to visualize the results of such applications, implementing new features, as well as maintaining various web applications.

Qualifications

- Basics (must have)
 - B.Sc. Degree in Computer Science or Engineering (Or equivalent)
 - Strong understanding of UI, cross-browser compatibility, general web functions and standards.
 - Strong understanding of web markup (html, css ..) as well as client-side scripting and JavaScript Frameworks (Backbone.js, AngularJS, etc ..)
 - Aware of back-end technologies, frameworks, database management, server-side interactions and communication protocols (http, rtsp, etc..)
 - Previous working experience in web development (Fresh graduates should provide portfolio of any web projects)

- Other (good to have)
 - Strong programming experience with Java, python & Ruby
 - Worked with Ruby On Rails framework
 - Familiar with NodeJS, npm, CoffeeScript, scss
 - Aware of full-stack development process and testing
 - Working experience with web-based Multimedia applications (video streaming, video surveillance, etc.)
 - Worked with nosql database

To apply, submit your resume or CV together with the cover letter to hr@avidbeam.com